Crypto Academy Sessions, Ep. 1 — Investing Foundations

As Denise discussed with Raoul and Tony, much of our investing behavior stems from the foundational life experiences that shape our core memories and impulses as we grow older. These memories and impulses shape our personality and, absent serious reflection, dictate the way we live, work, and invest.

In Episode 1 of the Crypto Academy Sessions series, Raoul Pal sits down with the series hosts, OSF and Mando, to discuss their backgrounds, how they broke into crypto investing, and how those early life experiences shaped their approach to digital asset markets.

Mando and OSF have become 2 of the most well-known traders and NFT entrepreneurs in the Web3 space, but it wasn't always that way. Over the years, they've emphasized the importance of learning from their mistakes, keeping a healthy balance of skepticism and unabashedly curiosity, and taking profits early and often. This episode sets the stage for the insights you'll learn on this crypto investing journey — so if you haven't watched it, be sure to catch up.

What Type of Trader Are You? — Dave Floyd

Once you've done the requisite self-reflection to understand your individual motivations, impulses, and fears, it's time to use that knowledge to become a better investor.

And the first step in that process is determining what trading style best fits your unique temperament and lifestyle. The answer is different for each of us, and in this tutorial, technical trading legend and CEO of Aspen Trading Group, Dave Floyd, coaches us on how to make market decisions that align with your goals.

Dave walks us through identifying your preferred trading style (day trading, swing trading, or long-term investing), the differences between each strategy, and the overarching commandments that apply to every type of trader.

Each of us has some trader in us... even the long-term investors. This lesson will help you decide which market areas are most interesting to you, and how to turn those interests into a successful trading strategy.

Jawad Mian

Jawad Mian, founder of the online investment community Stray Reflections, joined Raoul on The Journey Man for a philosophical conversation about the work it takes to become a healthy, "wisdom-filled" thinker and investor.

If you missed it, you're going to want to change that right now. Here's how Raoul describes Jawad:

- "He's an extraordinary person," says Raoul. "Everybody else in the macro space is monkeys shouting and throwing poo at each other, but he's very quiet. He listens and he reflects. And I think there's some real magic in that."

Jawad and Raoul cover everything from his journey from Pakistan to Dubai to Canada, how he went from bank teller to investment manager, why he fell in love with markets, and why honest self-reflection and community are two of the most important things for any investor.

"My job is not to predict the future, but to see the present clearly," says Jawad.
